Astronauts reunited in Moon orbit

Three American astronauts, united again after the Apollo program's final and most bountiful moon-landing expedition, lingered in lunar orbit today surveying the surface below for still more knowledge.

Gone was the landing ship Challenger, which had carried Apollo 17's Eugene A. Cernan and Harrison H. Schmitt to the surface for 75 hours and then returned them safely to the command ship America and reunion with Ronald E. Evans.

In the early morning hours, Challenger was thrust away from the command ship, and a radio signal from Mission Control sent it crashing into Flash-flood warnings were issued for the Southeast from Mississippi to the Carolinas today as locally heavy rains filled river and creek beds.

Severe thunderstorms rumbled across portions of Louisiana into Mississippi as a storm off the Louisiana coast hurled rain, sleet or snow north as far as the middle Mississippi and Ohio valleys.

Alexandria, La., was hit with more than an inch of rain; Athens, Ga., was soaked with almost 2 inches and Gainsville, Fla., was swamped with 21/2

A band of freezing rain glazed eastern Oklahoma, northern Arkansas, southeast Missouri, southern Illinois, western Tennessee and Kentucky.

Snow fell over parts of Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri with accumulation of 1 to 3 inches expected. A winter storm watch was posted from the middle Appalachians to New UMW rebels from 15 at Pocatello, Idaho, to 80 at Palm Beach and Key West, Fla.

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) - they start their journey home, the astronauts' task was to probe the moon with cameras and sophisticated sensing devices. They were in an orbit 69 miles above the surface.

> Cernan and Schmitt completed man's most successful moon visit ever late Thursday when they rocketed off the lunar surface with a record cargo of moon samples and film.

After transferring the precious lunar treasure into America, the astronauts cast off Challenger, freeing it for destruction in the cause of science. The lander, which cost $40 million, could not have been returned to earth with the command ship.

"It seems an unfitting finish to a super bird," said Cernan, during his last moments aboard the craft he had flown to a near-perfect landing Monday in the moon valley of Taurus-Littrow. "But it's got one more job to do."

On radio commands from earth, Challenger fired its rocket thrusters and sent itself speeding to an impact near the Taurus-Littrow valley.

Force of the impact caused a seismic shock which excited quake-detection instruments left on the moon by Apollo 17 and by previous Apollo missions.

In a spectacular lunar departure, Challenger popped off its flat-topped landing stage amid a shower of debris and soared upward into the black lunar sky over Taurus-Littrow. The craft's yellow-flamed rocket was visible to television watchers on earth for about 35 seconds before it vanished from the view of a TV camera left on the moon.

Evans, aboard the larger ship, focused a television camera on Challenger as it rose from its low lunar orbit. The bug-like craft could be seen speeding upward, the distant, silvered lunar surface a racing blur in the background.

The landing craft grew larger and larger as it approached the America and the camera until, finally, the shadowed outlines of Cernan and Schmitt, standing at the triangular windows of Challenger, could be seen.

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) Seventeen-year-old John Wagoner, who tective custody. has been placed under protective custody at the Mansfield Reformatory, says he still "sort of" fears for his life.

"The inmates said they're going to break my neck and stab me ...for telling," said Wagoner, who informed officials after he was beaten and sexually asssulted by other inmates in the institution's Youth Center Sept. 24.

State Corrections Commissioner Bennett Cooper said, "If I felt that his life was as much in danger...then he'd be out of here by now." Cooper said Wagoner was removed from the youth center after it was "ascertained six or seven people assaulted him.

The Bainbridge youth was put in the main building of the reformatory. Cooper said he cannot circulate on the premises without an officer.

The superintendent of the institute, R.C. White, said Wagoner "since then has not been assaulted in any way.'

White said the youth claimed he was attacked, but later made a statement that he was not beaten by other inmates. White added that Wagoner is secluded in an area away from the inmates that have allegedly been threatening his life. "There are no other inmates there," White said.

Russian physicist exiled

NEW YORK (AP) - Twenty-four hours earlier, he had been told he was a man without a country. Now Dr. Valery H. Chalidze was sprawled deep in an overstuffed chair in his mid-Manhattan hotel room, kicking his heels into the capret.

"Well," he said, "this is better than a Soviet prison. That, at least, is the consolation.

"You see," she said, "they were frightened of arresting him at home, too much fuss. They did it this way.'

By "this way," she meant the confiscation of Chalidze's passport and the revoking of his citizenship. The 34year-old Chalidze is a Russian physicist who has been increasingly outspoken against political repression in the Soviet Union. Since Thanksgiving Day, he has been lecturing in the United States on the Soviet dissident movement.

On Wednesday, two Soviet officials called at his hotel, confiscated his passport and informed him he had been deprived of his citizenship.

"The U.S.S.R. is my country, and I have the right to return to my own country whenever I wish," Chalidze said, moving restlessly in his chair.

The Senate approved the conference committee report on the criminal code bill 18-7 and the House approved 58-18 after conferess submitted a unanimous report. The measure now goes to Gov. John Gilligan for his consideration, although the bulk of the bill would not take effect until January, 1974.

Sen. Howard Cook, R-1 Toledo, explained the conference committee's efforts, saying the members worked out compromises "in about 10 areas of disagreement. "One of the main conflicts was minimum sentences for specified crimes. The agreed bill contains sentences about midway between what the Senate wanted and what the House sought, he said.

The bill, if approved by the governor, would place Ohio among the first states to enact a law seeking to retain capital punishment in the wake of a U.S. Supreme Court decision that abolished it in all but certain, undefined circumstances

The conference committee retained capital punishment, but changed the procedures under which it could be invoked. The Senate had set up a procedure under which a three-judge panel could change a death sentence to life imprisonment if it found "mitigating" circumstances. The conference committee transferred this authority to the trial judge.

Earlier, the House passed and sent to the Senate a newly-introduced bill by Rep. Norman Murdock, R-70 Cincinnati, which would prohibit recovery of salary increases received by municipal judges since 1968. Municipal judges were inadvertedly excluded from a 1968 constitutional amendment which removed state judges from a prohibition against receiving pay raises during their terms. Property tax relief plans slowed by disagreements

Nixon's administration will keep working for federal relief to those who pay local property taxes, even though an advisory commission recommended against its favorite method, says Treasury Undersecretary Edwin S.

The Advisory Commission on Inter-governmental Relations Thursday turned down a recommendation by its own staff for federal incentive grants to encourage states to adopt "circuitproperty-tax policies, breaker" benefiting elderly and poor homeowners and renters. These would provide tax cutoffs or rebates when the property tax exceeded a fixed proportion of the taxpayer's income.

The commission also rejected a compromise proposal by Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz favoring tax relief either by a direct federal circuit-breaker program, aid to states for similar programs, or unspecified other methods. The commission agreed tacitly only to keep the whole matter under advisement while effects of federal

Last January, Nixon assigned to the commission the task of studying possibilities for property-tax relief, including specifically the question of whether the government should consider a value-added tax-a form of national sales tax-to produce an estimated $13 billion in revenues that could be used to offset property taxes.

Since then, however, administration spokesmen have backed away from the idea of a value-added tax. The commission reported that such a tax is not needed for property-tax-relief pur-also was defeated. The unofficial tally included voters in Madison County and overlapping precincts in Fayette, Pickaway and Franklin counties, all residents of the Madison Plains District.

The Madison Plains Board of Education chose to resubmit only the 2-mill request in Thursday's special election.

The school district was formed in 1968 with the consolidation of Madison South and Madison Plains districts. Mount Sterling and Fairfield schools joined in 1956 to form the Plains district and Midway, South Solon and Madison Rural schools joined in 1954 to form the South District.

VOTERS in the old Plains district defeated the issue in November by a vote of 1,408 for the levy and 1,866

A renewal of a 2-mill operating levy was approved by a similar margin, 1,866 for and 1,426 against, in November. normal scope of protecting buyers from false information.

Another problem that has arisen in connection with the proposed new law is that the Governor's Business and Employment Council is developing proposals of its own, some of which may conflict with provisions of the advisory committee's draft.

The council, which was to report to Gilligan on its work today, has been working on ways in which venture capital can be encouraged to invest in new business in Ohio.

One of its proposals is to exempt issues of securities to small numbers of people or to so-called "sophisticated" buyers from regulation by the securities division.

The council's contention, Case said, is that bureaucratic red tape is deterring investors from starting new businesses in cases where there's really no need for any regulation.

Case said the council would probably submit a bill of its own, but he's been trying to encourage the council and the advisory committee to get together on a provision to be part of the overall securities proposal.

"People seem to feel they have to take sides on this," Case said. "I don't think they need to conflict with one another. We need a new securities law and I would hate to see people abandon that effort to remedy specific problem

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - The National Weather Service's summary of Ohio weather:

A developing low center in southern Mississippi has caused an extensive area of inclement weather over the southeastern United States and this system threatens Ohio Friday. Travelers advisories are in effect over the state except in the southeast where rain is expected and in the extreme north where heavy snow warnings have been issued for Friday afternoon and

There were a few areas of light sleet and freezing rain across central and southern sections of the state Thursday November election was to increase the night and early Friday and rain fell in size of the high school to handle the extreme southeast. Temperatures students in the top four grades. were in the 20s and low 30s through the Students in grades 10 through 12 attend night. Early Friday readings ranged from 27 at Toledo to 33 at Chesapeake

> Rain, sleet or freezing rain is expected to change to snow this afternoon and evening and then diminish to flurries tonight. Accumulations of around 4 inches in the north and 1 to 3 inches elsewhere are likely tonight. There will be a pronounced turn to colder tonight with the mercury dropping into the teens over the west and central parts of the state by Saturday morning.

The low is expected to reach the New England coast Saturday with high pressure moving into the Mississippi Valley. Cold northwesterly winds will keep skies mostly cloudy over Ohio on Saturday with some snow flurries mainly in the north and east and temperatures mainly in the 20s.

There will be a chance of flurries across Ohio Sunday and Monday, and a chance of snow or rain Tuesday. Highs Sunday will be in the 20s and low 30s, rising to the 30s and low 40s by Tuesday. Lows all three mornings will be in the teens and low 20s.

Fayette Masons to observe St. John's Day

Fayette Lodge No 107, F&AM will observe St. John's Day by attending services at the First Presbyterian Church Sunday morning. All Masons, whether members of Fayette Lodge or not, are invited to participate.

Masons are to meet at the church at 10 a.m. to attend the 10:15 service in a group, according to announcement made by Lester Bower, worshipful master of the lodge.

St. John the Baptist and St. John the Evangelist are patron saints of the order, and it is in honor of St. John the Evangelist that this observance is held.

soft again

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market was soft again today, as seasonal factors such as tax-loss selling and preholiday doldrums chipped away at prices for the fourth straight session.

Some analysts said President Nixon's decision to continue wageprice controls next year figured strongly in the decline.

At noon the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off .53 to 1024.53. It had slumped more than 2 points early in the session. Declining issues outnumbered advancing ones on the Big Board by 7 to 4 in moderate trading.

Analysts said yearend portfolio juggling was partly responsible for the market's 11-point decline in four days. They said a technical consolidation following the market's broad advance that started in October was another

FTC demands auto claims be certified

WASHINGTON (AP) — A dozen car manufacturers have been ordered by the Federal Trade Commission to explain how they back up more than 100 advertising claims they have made for 1972 and 1973 models.

An FTC spokesman told a news conference Thursday that the commission has not accused the manufacturers of false advertising. He said the commission will make available to the public the information which must be submitted by the manufacturers within 60 days. Among the claims the commission substantiated ordered documented:

-That American Motors' Gremlin is still "heavier, wider and more horsepower than any car near its price.'

-In the front seat of a Volvo, "you have more room to stretch your legs than you do in a Cadillac De Ville .. more rear-seat leg room than a Buick Electra, and Volvo's trunk is bigger than a Lincoln Continental's.

Nursing home operators deny excessive profits

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - A report take part in a Medicaid cost report released by a U.S. Senate committee in reimbursement program Washington Thursday claiming that Ohio nursing homes make "excessive" profits from their Medicaid reimbursements drew surprised denials from state and welfare nursing home officials

The report, based on a survey of Ohio nursing homes, was prepared by the Federation for Community Planning of Cleveland and released by Sen. Frank Moss, D-Utah, chairman of the subcommittee on Long-Term Care of the Senate Special Committee on Aging.

The report claimed that a 50-bed nursing home operator realizes a "pretax annual return" on his original investment of 34 per cent and 100-bed operators make 76 per cent. 'That's crazy," said John C.

Wheeler, who heads the Independent Committee of Long Term Care Providers, a loose coalition of about 430 nursing homes.

threatened at one point to expell their welfare patients if they were forced into the program.

'If anyone can come into my home and show me even a 10 per cent profit, I'd be learning something from him,' Wheeler said. "I'd hire him."

Robert Canary, acting state welfare director, said cost reports received from Ohio nursing homes who are participating in the new reimbursement program contain no indication of profits approaching the figures cited in the report.

"On the basis of reports we've received from the homes, their costs would be nowhere near producing this kind of income," Canary said. "I don't know the figures on which they based this study.

"Payments in Ohio are relatively modest compared to payments made in a number of states for nursing home Phonics is sometimes hard for them," said Mrs. Lepene. "When words come out of a puppet's mouth, it makes it more interesting for them, and they can learn more easily." Then, there's discipline:

"When the room gets too noisy, I get Raggedy-Ann out and then say, 'Raggedy-Ann has to go back in because it's too noisy,' and they quiet down.'

Mrs. Lepene's puppets are just one sign of a quiet revolution going on in Ohio education, a revolution aimed at making Little Johnny's teachers better and better. It's a three-way revolution: -Revision of the way teachers are

"This type of program ought to be in the state of Ohio," said Supt. Robert

The present surplus of teachers in most fields permits the other two fields of teacher revolution — tougher certificates and revised college training.

The Commission on Public School Personnel Policies, a private group, noted in a recent booklet on teacher education: "In June of 1971, 16,325 graduates of Ohio colleges and universities were recommended to the Ohio State Board of Education for certification. In the following fall, only 6,675 or 41 per cent of these newly certified teachers were employed in the state's elementary and secondary

"Further, we are now faced with an oversupply of certified teachers at a time when school enrollments are projected to drop off slightly.

Dr. Essex said, "The need for a revision of teacher education has been apparent for some time, but the time was not at hand. Now, we think, it is.'

The state is demanding from Ohio's 53 institutions training teachers more rigid and modern standards. "Only those colleges or universities committed to the professionalization and improvement of teaching can be considered worthy of approval," said Robert Bowers, assistant state superintendent of education for in-

State education officials are on a long-range round of visits to teacher training schools. Central State University was the latest.

Almost certainly, Ohio will have to spend more money training its teachers under the new concepts. 'Teacher education has been a punching bag," said Dr. Kevin Ryan of the University of Chicago, the educator who did an exhaustive survey for the Cleveland-based Commission on Public School Personnel.

"It costs $40,000 to train a veterinarian, but only $5,000 to train a teacher," said Ryan.

One major change will be in the contacts students have with children. Now student contacts with children come late in their college training. In the future, students will find out early if they have the ability to handle children, or if after meeting the kids they really want to be teachers.

"One of the striking characteristics of the institutions in which the teachers of our young people are prepared is that in them one rarely hears a child's voice," Ryan's report noted.

Around the close of the first year for many a new teacher both teaching as a career and children pall. "It's called the curve of disenchantment," said Dr. Rvan. "The honeymoon is over. The teacher tends to become hostile, has a sense of failure, feels it's hopeless to survive and becomes more and more authoritative.

That's just one problem to be solved at college, in part by earlier contacts with kids and in part by making the College of Education much harder to

Dr. Ryan's report recommends many sweeping changes, and the state is moving toward less sweeping changes, but change there will be, the

The surest change appeared to be the kind of on-the-job training Mentor and Toledo school systems now do.

New Democratic chairman

WASHINGTON CALLING . . . by Marquis Childs

Power gravitates toward the White House

The election of Robert Strauss as chairman of the Democratic National Committee does not appear the herald any major shift in the party's course. Rather it indicates that there will be a slowdown in the reform movement which so notably changed the makeup of the Democratic National Convention last summer.

The switch in chairmen reflects among other things a widespread feeling on the National Committee that the party went too fast in expanding representation of women, minority groups and youth. Many party leaders seem to regard this as an important factor in loss of the presidential election.

It must be borne in mind that this is not entirely a matter of cool, impersonal calculation. The element of human emotions cannot be excluded from what has happened. There is evidently a strong, though perhaps to some extent an unconscious, wish to break away

Then, too, there are a lot of disgruntled party workers of long standing who were in a sense victimized by the reform movement. That is, they found themselves displaced at the National Convention by unseasoned delegates swept on the wave of strident demand for more or less strict proportional representation.

These long-time workers, including some high-level state leaders, found themselves watching the convention proceedings on television at home instead of from the vantage point of a delegate's seat. advocates may read anti-feminism into that defeat. We think that this was not a significant factor in the outcome; it strikes us as mere happenstance that the first woman chairman of the party became the focal point of dissatisfaction with how the campaign went. In any case, the sting has been tempered a bit by the creation of a new vice chairmanship to which Mrs. Caroline Wilkins was elected.

Those in the McGovern camp will doubtless regard with some skepticism the new chairman's pledge that he will not "condone a turning back of the clock on reforms." They will be wary of his support by conservative elements, while the latter may hug themselves in anticipation of a strong braking action on the reform movement.

The fact is that no one can say just how things will go: it remains to be seen how Strauss, whose role has been essentially that of a fund raiser, will direct the party's course.

New insight on drug abuse

Once it was largely the poor who turned to drugs for release; today many young people from well-to-do homes are using not only marijuana but a variety of hard narcotics.

to unprecedented heights of antidrug activity. Programs of all sorts have been launched, the schools encourage teachers to fulminate against drug use, parents goaded by a flood of warnings strive to safeguard their offspring against this peril.

The preliminary report of an international study made under auspices of the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization now raises the question whether all this furore is worthwhile. It goes further than that: the question it really poses is whether the campaigns of education and publicity are doing as much harm as good, spreading drug abuse rather than curbing it.

There may be some tendency, among those most deeply involved in various anti-drug abuse efforts, to react indignantly to this suggestion. Though such a reaction would be a report based on findings in 14 countries, and it must not be denigrate sincere effort to curb drug addiction responsive to fads. There is reason to think that some drug abuse among the young, perhaps a great deal of it, results from this. Once teen-agers get the idea that taking drug trips is the thing to do, the temptation to try it is urgent.

Auxiliary donates gifts to OSSO Home

American Legion Auxiliary Unit 25 gathered in the home of Mrs. Marie Mace for the Christmas meeting which was conducted by Mrs. William Williams, president.

The chaplain, Miss Verna Williams, opened the meeting with prayer.

Mrs. Phillip Ford, chairman of the children and youth committee, reported the completed plans for the American Legion annual Christmas party. Mrs. Ford will visit the OSSO Home in Xenia, Dec. 20, to deliver gifts donated by the senior and junior auxiliary members.

The Americanism chairman, Mrs. Philip Binzel, provided a progress report regarding the treaty being considered by the U.S. Senate called the Genocide Convention. The American Bar Association recently refused to endorse this treaty. After explaining certain aspects of the proposed treaty, she urged members to write Senators Taft and Saxbe opposing the treaty on grounds that it represents international law being imposed on U. S. private citizens.

AFS student Claudia Becht, of Achen, Germany, who is residing with Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Duff, was the special guest. She showed slides of Aachen and described as it would be seen by a visitor. Miss Becht compared the Christmas celebration in Germany with that of Washington C. H.

Mrs. Mace was assisted in serving refreshments by Mrs. Williams. The next meeting will be Jan. 17 in the Legion Hall.

moon in this century was doled out in time, NBC did. minutes during the profitable prime evening hours.

NBC was the exception. It preempted "Search" from 10 to 11 p.m. EST Wednesday for the last primetime look at the final lunar walk of astronauts Eugene A. Cernan and Harrison H. Schmitt.

That network and ABC also sporadically interrupted their primetime entertainment shows during the three lunar walks to broadcast live transmissions from the moon and briefly report on progress being made

But CBS stayed with its entertainment shows. When it did cover the moon walk, it did it well. But it never once interrupted its prime-time entertainment to do it.

"I just don't think it's very urgent news," CBS News President Richard S. Salant said Wednesday morning when asked why the network didn't broadcast any prime-time progress reports.

'You know, who was the sixth guy to discover America?" he asked. He said he had recommended against any prime-time interruptions.

> Prime-time interruptions of regular shows amounted to three brief NBC reports on Monday and Tuesday; ABC's updates totalled four, also on Monday and Tuesday.

They basically were a series of vignettes about the exhilaration of discovery, a series that intruded too briefly into a crowded television world of football, comedy, music and drama.

NBC's Wednesday coverage from 10 to 11 p.m. was particularly good on several counts, including correspondent Jim Hartz' filmed reports amid the lonely debris of this nation's race to the moon

Santa and the ICE KING

by Lucrece Beale

SYNOPSIS: Santa, Oonik and Keotuk are going to visit the Ice King to persuade him to put a stop to the continuous winter. Tweedleknees, Santa's helper, has finally gotten into the spirit of the thing and agreed to build Oonik a new sled.

CHAPTER EIGHT OONIK BUILDS AN IGLOO

The fairies build up the fire in the workshop. Sadly they threw doll beds and toy blocks, wooden soldiers and boxes of trucks into the flames. The room grew warm again and the fairies stopped shivering and sneezing and were able to smile.

But Oonik watched with tears in his eyes as the fabulous toys went up in

"Don't worry," the fairies said, "We'll be able to make toys again when Santa destroys the miserable Ice

"He musn't destroy the Ice King," corrected the Queen Fair. "We want winter in the wintertime but we also want summer in the summertime. That's what Santa is to straighten out with the Ice King.. Oh, it will be lovely to see a flower growing again! "Come here!" growled Tweedleknees.

The flappy-eared dwarf had taken apart seven toy wagons and rebuild them into a long red sled with wagon sides for slats and steel wheels spokes curved into runners. "How is that!" demanded Tweedleknees.

"Beautiful!" exclaimed Oonik truthfully. "It looks also very fast."

"Any sled I make is fast," boasted Tweedleneees. "The fairies have brought in the reindeers' harness. Hitch up your dog and you're ready to go. Oh, and here's something else you

The gruff old dwarf handed Oonik an ice saw and a seal spear far finer than the ones he had lost on the frozen sea. "Oh, thank you," said Oonik, surprised and pleased. Santa came carrying a sack of food. "Mrs. Claus felt so much better when I told her my plans she got right out of bed and made doughnuts and cookies and gingerbread men -all for Oonik and the Eskimo boy, so said.

Now Oonik had never in his life eaten cake or cookies but when he asked what they were Santa said, "Never mind. You will find out. I have raw meat here also for Keotuk.

They packed the tools and food on the sled. Then Santa and Oonik climbed on and, while Tweedleknees shouted a tearful goodby, away they went.

Keotuk wore his little seal skin shoes and bounded joyfully over the snow. But the sled was large and the load heavy and soon Keotuk had to slow down. Again and again Santa and Oonik got off to walk but often they fell or got separated in the falling snow so finally they stayed on the sled and let Keotuk pull it as best he could.

The further they went the colder it became. This was good because it meant they were getting closer to the Ice King's domain. But finally, Keotuk could go no further and they had to

The snow drifts were packed so hard it was impossible to burrow into them for protection while they slept and ate. I shall build an igloo!" exclaimed

"I am afraid it would take too long," protested Santa.

With Santa's help, Oonik built a perfect igloo.

"Oh, no," replied Oonik. "My father because the sled was long and narrow. has taught me. I can build one in an hour. Watch!

With his snow saw he cut out blocks Next: An Unwelcome Visitor of ice from the drifts. Each block was about the size of a small suitcase. With Santa's help, he placed the blocks in a circle about eight feet across being careful to lean each block inward. The next two blocks he shaved down in such a way that when the second row of blocks went on its spiraled upward and Soon the spiral almost closed over Oonik's head. He decided to leave an opening there to let in light.

But now he was inside a house with no door. He dug his way out making a long tunnel under the wall.

Then he said to Santa "Come on in!" It was a very tight squeeze through the tunnel but Santa made it by pulling in his tummy and holding his breath. Then Oonik brought in Keotuk and pulled in the sled which was easy

That network and ABC also time entertainment shows during the transmissions from the moon and briefly report on progress being made

But CBS stayed with its entertainment shows. When it did cover the moon walk, it did it well. But it never once interrupted its prime-time entertainment to do it.

"I just don't think it's very urgent news," CBS News President Richard S. Salant said Wednesday morning when asked why the network didn't broadcast any prime-time progress reports.

"You know, who was the sixth guy to discover America?" he asked. He said he had recommended against any prime-time interruptions

NBC replayed the moment later in the evening but didn't broadcast it live. And, as Cernan and Schmitt were dedicating their final hour on the moon to mankind, Ed McMahon was on NBC, following Johnny Carson's jokes with a commercial for dog food.

Jobless drop may be just statistical fluke

By JOHN CUNNIFF

AP Business Analyst encouraging economic signs in Commission approval, which came on picture. November was a drop in the jobless the labor force. But now there seems to be a question of statistical fluke.

As noted by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, one reason for the lower jobless rate was a shrinking of the labor force. Fewer people were Packers Association. looking for jobs.

But curiously, the primary reason for a drop in the size of the labor force was reduction in the figure for heads of households. Which brings up the question: What in the world happened

Thalidomide settlement increased

LONDON (AP) - The British distributor of the drug thalidomide has more than doubled its compensation offer to 342 deformed children and their

The Distillers Co. offered Wednesday night to set up a trust fund totaling $27.6 million. It had offered $11.7 million two weeks ago and $6.8 million originally.

Parents and some politicians had demanded at least $46 million. The latest offer, which would work out to about $80,835 per child, got a mixed reception. But there was no rush to accept it.

"The company is now beginning to talk realistic amounts," said David Mason, a London art dealer whose daughter has no arms or legs, and who has led the parents' fight. "But nobody should surrender their legal rights

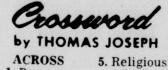

Mrs. Nita Davies, whose 10-year-old son Karl has no arms, declared: "If that is their offer, Distillers can stick it. We are prepared to fight to the end to see that they pay fairly for the disaster that has been made of Karl's life.'

The offer does not apply to 62 children whose parents sued Distillers 10 years ago and settled for $16,800 each. However, they will share in grants totaling $14.4 million which the government announced Nov. 29 for thalidomide victims.

sounding convincingly meaningful while saying something which is usually just the opposite of what you are really thinking.

Time for double talk drill

Double-talk is intentionally tactful, helpful and healing despite its total insincerity. You don't believe what you're saying, but you say it so that it sounds consoling.

Here for your guidance, class, are a few common examples of double-talk in a variety of situations. The quoted remarks are what the person said, followed in each case by what he actually was thinking.

"Are you borrowing my umbrella, Jane, dear?" — I caught you redhanded this time, didn't I, you little

"I think these weekly early morning staff idea sessions will prove highly productive." — At least I'll be able to get all you goldbricks to work on time once during the week.

"It's an honor to reward your 50 years of faithful service to the firm with this token gift of a gold watch." How could a guy spend half a century without ever getting off his backside!

"I love you just as much as I did the day I met you at the altar." — Once a crazy, mixedup kid, always a crazy, mixedup kid.

'There are times when we have to put up with life as it is, not as we would wish it to be." — Weep some more, my lady. You haven't got half the lumps you deserve yet

"Never mind how the casserole turned out, Kate. After all, I didn't marry you just because I needed a cook." - Right now I can't remember just what it was I needed

Tree worth $15,000

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A $15,000 judgment has been returned against an Indianapolis, Ind., man charged with cutting down a 65-foot-high Eastern black walnut tree here Oct. 3.

The tree, which had been on the property line of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Bambach Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. John Minnich, was described during a hearing Wednesday in U.S. District Court as a landmark in Civil War days.

Judge Timothy Hogan returned the judgment against James E. Benham, who was described as a professional logger. Benham failed to appear for the hearing and didn't enter a plea.

Albert Mestemaker, who lives near the property where the tree war, testified that the Indiana man approached him and his wife Oct. 2 about buying an allegedly diseased tree on their land. Before they made any decision, the man came back the next day, and cut down and hauled away the tree on the Bambach-Minnich property line, the Mestemakers said.

get into the fields for harvest, this will mean a $2 million loss to them and an $8 to $10 million losss in the county's economy. He said reports indicate the loss is already being felt in the business community.

"WHAT FARMERS now need the most," he said, "is about two weeks of clear, 15 degree weather.'

Gruber said last year's gross cash agricultural receipts in Fayette County were estimated at $21 million, $12 million of which came from livestock.

The unusual weather will have its effects not only on the production costs of livestock, but will throw farmers off schedule in planting in the spring. It also is anticipated that there will be a considerable loss to fertilizer dealers since farmers may have to forego spreading chemicals in the spring.

The situation has strongly affected the price of soybeans, causing them to skyrocket to over $4 per bushel (Thursday's price was $3.91, a drop of 25 cents in four days). This has seriously hurt farmers who contracted their beans at $3 at planting, Gruber said. Also in jeopardy are those farmers who have contracted their crops and may not be able to harvest, he concluded.

"There's nothing we can do about the weather. Farming is a risky business at best. All we can do is be aware of the farmer's serious situation and hope," Gruber said.

PARADE CHAIRMAN Bruce Ream reported that several suggestions should be considered for conducting next year's Christmas Parade, following a review meeting of the Parade Committee. The committee would like considered holding the parade on Sunday instead of Saturday, prohibit peddlers, create an overall theme for local floats next year;

$1.5 million blaze hits Middletown

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) -Debris continued to smoulder today following a $1.5 million furniture store fire which destroyed two buildings and damaged a third in the center of Middletown's business district.

Fire Chief James Matson ordered an investigation of the blaze that left only one wall standing of the four-story S&S Furniture Co. A computer firm next door was destroyed when a wall collapsed on it and a laundry was heavily damaged.

Matson said the store had closed at 5:30 p.m. Smoke was seen minutes later, followed by an explosion at 5:38, he said.

"I heard an explosion, a minor one like a furnace starting up," said William Schneider, who lives in an apartment across the street," and then when I looked, the whole first floor broke out into flames.

"The windows blew out, and the flames spread to the upper floors. I never saw anything go so fast.'

Deputy Fire Chief Ernest Gehm, who made the damage estimate, said the building was engulfed when firemen arrive, flames shooting 100 feet above the structure.

Two firemen and one police officer were injured slightly in the blaze. The entire block was evacuated when firemen feared the intense heat would ignite gas mains in the street.

Central Avenue, which was blocked when the front wall gave way, was scheduled to reopen by noon today, the chief said.

up on Willard Street, review the Friday program to determine if it is worthwhile and engage all out-of-town judges for the float competition.

Ream said parade receipts will total $2,440 if the Community Chest donates a "total" requested amount while expenses were $2,113. It was suggested that the Community Chest be adivsed to reduce its contribution to 65 per cent in order to clear parade expenses.

Palmaccio, conducting the meeting in the absence of President Sheppard, congratulated Ream, James Dunn, executive vice president, and Donald C. Riber, a member of the parade committee, for their successful staging of the parade.

Other committee reports heard by the board included one delivered by Winkle concerning the CIC's "selective search for industry" program, and another from J. C. Wright concerning the Chamber's planned "fun Night" program to be staged Feb. 27 in the Eagles Lodge.

The "Fun Night" program will include a steak dinner and drawing of 150 prizes according to ticket numbers, including top prizes of $1,000, $300 and $100. Proceeds will be used for the Chamber budget. Tickets are now on sale at $25 each, Wright said.

OU trustees boost income from property at Athens

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Ohio said. "That's what we did Nov. 15." University trustees, facing a drastically slashed budget, acted Thursday to triple anticipated income from surplus land in Athens and killed plans to build an academic branch at

They approved an $80,000-a-year lease with the Kroger Co. for a 16-acre tract which they originally had agreed to rent to Big Bear for $25,000 a year.

Trustees approved the Big Bear agreement on July 17. Two days later, Kroger offered to rent the land for $50,000 a year and went to court to keep Big Bear from acquiring the site for a one-stop shopping center.

Preliminary injunctions issued by Common Pleas Judge Jay Flowers on Oct. 6 and Oct. 13 stopped the university and the state director of public works from proceeding with the agreement. OU President Claude Sowle said the trustees "thought their action had been made and the lease ought to go to Big Bear," but the public works director

"He did think the bidding should be thrown open one final time," Sowle

Big Bear hiked its offer to $55,000 in the second round of bidding, but Kroger increased from $50,000 to $80,000

The lease also calls for overages percentages of gross sales above multimillion totals. Sowle said he did not think that would amount to much now, "but it could amount to more than the rental if there is inflation.

The university would get 1 per cent above $6 million from food, 2 per cent over $7 million on discount store business and 2 per cent over $2 million from drugs.

Trustees abandoned a three-year-old project to build a branch at Ironton, despite heavy pressure from the Lawrence County community.

In the days when every man had to be his own automobile mechanic, nearly every motorist carried with him an oversized tool kit which consisted of something like thirty to forty different tools, and weighing approximately eighteen pounds. The basic design of these tools have changed very little, through the years, but today, the steel with which they are made has been greatly improved, making them more durable and less expensive.

Speaking of design, the Honda motorcycle, first of all, starts with an exceptional idea and is designed to give the highest performance, powerful and sure, with quality standards built into every model. HONDA is a leader that is recognized and preterred by thousands of people from every walk of life and you'll want to own one of your own, the minute you test ride a HONDA.

It was the eighth day of heavy B52 attacks on the area where heavy concentrations of North Vietnamese troops and trucks were reported last week

A B52 mission normally consists of three planes. The highest number previously flown against North Vietnam was 15 on Nov. 22, the U.S. Command said.

Most of the missions in the North between noon Thursday and noon today hit an area 22 to 43 miles southeast of the Port of Dong Hoi. But two others hit in the area of the Mu Gia Pass into Laos and the Ho Chi Minh Trail.

The U.S. Command reported 16 other B52 missions were flown during the 24hour period, including two against targets in the DMZ, seven against targets in Quang Tri Province, below the DMZ, and seven elsewhere in South American fighter-bombers made 50 strikes against the North Thursday, but the U.S. Command for the second day said there was "no significant bombdamage assessment" to report. Another 324 fighterbomber strikes were flown in South Vietnam, the largest number in two months. More than half were in the northern provinces below the DMZ.

In the ground war, more rocket, mortar and bomb attacks hit the Saigon region, and more clashes were reported in Quang Tri Province and the central highlands.

Fifteen miles north of Saigon, 16 122mm rockets hit the Bien Hoa Air Base, an adjoining regional military headquarters and two neighboring hamlets. The Saigon command said six civilians were killed, two were wounded and the electrical supply at the air base was interrupted temporarily by damage to the power plant.

Thirteen mortar rounds landed in a fuel dump beside the Saigon River on the southeast fringe of the capital, destroying 30 barrels of oil. The fuel dump was across the river from the big ammunition depot that was attacked early Thursday. Inside Saigon, a bomb in the parking lot of an army installation killed a soldier, damaged three trucks and set a small fuel tank afire.

The confrontation climaxed several

Tools, Christmas lights stolen

Tools valued at $500 were stolen from a garage at the Lawrence Waddell residence, Rt. 2, Leesburg, sometime Thursday afternoon, the Sheriff's Department reports.

Missing from the garage were two electric drills, a chain saw, and two large boxes containing assorted hand tools. Waddell placed the time of the theft at sometime between 1:30 and 2 p.m. The garage was not locked at the

Law enforcement officers blamed in college deaths

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — A campus by university President Leon special state investigating committee says it's up to local authorites to determine possible personal criminal liability in a student-police confrontation at Southern University in which two young blacks died.

In a preliminary report on the Nov. 16 shooting, the biracial committee said the fatal shot came from an area where six men had gathered, "an area where sheriff's deputies had deployed.'

But the report did not say specifically that the shot which killed Denver A. Smith of New Roads, La., and Leonard D. Brown of Gilbert, La., was fired by a sheriff's deputy, nor did it identify the six men in the group.

But Atty. Gen. William J. Guste Jr., in releasing on Thursday the report of the 12-member committee he headed, said: "I think it is a fair assumption that it (the shot) came from one of the deputies.

He said the committee did not attempt to determine who exactly fired the fatal shot of No. 4 buckshot because "the matter may involve personal culpability and addresses itself more properly to a grand jury.

'We have no evidence as to whether the shooting was accidental or deliberate ... We know the general area from which the shot came, and we know who occupied that area.

He said the committee's evidence would be submitted to the East Baton Rouge Parish district attorney's office.

Smith and Brown were shot after a group of students gathered in front of the predominantly black university's administration building refused police orders to leave the area. Some 55 sheriff's deputies and 30 state patrolmen had been called to the SU

New Holland PTO date is changed

NEW HOLLAND — The date for the New Holland Parent - Teacher Organization meeting and Christmas program by the students has been changed from 7:30 p.m. Tuesday to the same time Monday at the school.

Mrs. John P. Case, the music teacher, with the cooperation of the classroom teachers will present the students in a program of songs, recitations and playlets portraying "Christmas in Other Countries."

The brief business session will be held before the program, Mrs. Harold Thompson, the president, said.

Speaking of Your Health Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I've been told I have a post-nasal drip. I know that this is a common complaint, but it is annoying. What causes it, and what can be done about it?

Mr. J. L., Pa.

Dear Mr. L.: Post-nasal drip is a symptom that patients frequently complain about. It is not an observation made by doctors unless there is gross evidence of allergy, infection, or a combination of both

A thin watery solution almost always can be traced to the swelling of the nose's lining owing to allergy. The profuse discharge is nature's mechanism for clearing the nose and ridding it of an irritating substance.

Sneezing, too, is an explosive way to free the nose of these irritations.

Obstructions of the nose caused by polyps, spurs on the septal wall that divides one side of the nose from the other, and deviations of its contour can produce the irritating and excessive dripping.

Tobacco fumes, chemical fumes, and excessive use of nose drops affect the delicate lining of the nose, and produce abnormal secretions

Poor ventilation, overheating, and low humidity, especially in the winter. tend to dry the mucous membrane. The result is a thickening of the secretion, and difficulty of blowing it out through the nose

Possibly hormone and general metabolic conditions may also be responsible and more especially can compound the annovance.

The basic cause must be found and eliminated. Blowing the nose, rather than hawking it back, can reduce the annoyance.

Steam inhalation, sleeping on a higher pillow, anti-allergy drugs, and treatment for chronic sinus infection can reduce these troublesome symp-

When used under the direction of the doctor, with the frequency and for the duration he prescribes, nose drops can be beneficial. Dependence on them quickly develops. The need sometimes resembles a typical addiction.

I want specifically to stress that although nasal drops seem to bring relief they can do a great deal of damage to the nose, and eventually lead to total inability to breathe. This is known as the "rebound phenomenon."

Antibiotics, incorporated in many of these drops, are worthless and serve only as a further irritation.

Is surgery necessary in all cases of crossed eyes in children?

Mrs. S. D., La.

Dear Mrs. D.:

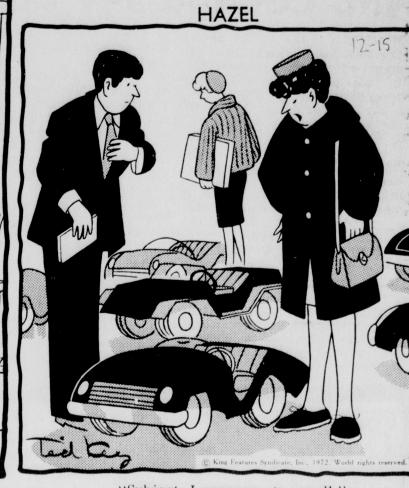

It is estimated that more than 75 per cent of all children with crossed eyes can be benefited, or even cured, without surgery.

Exercises and eyeglasses can be effective. Yet it is important that surgery, when necessary, be performed without delay. Waiting for Emotional stress, the viper in all "time" to correct the condition does disease, can also cause post-nasal drip, the child a great injustice.

enough values to scrape up your first response, you must try to slow partner down by bidding three diamonds. It may be tempting to bid two notrump because of the club stopper, but North would be much more likely to take such a bid seriously than if you simply returned to the first suit he bid. At the same time, if North passes three diamonds, it is highly likely to be the best contract.

3. Four diamonds. This hand is clearly better than the previous one, and you show the additional values by a jump preference to four diamonds. It is true you are bypassing three notrump, but there is no assurance that three notrump would prove safer than five diamonds, while there is a decided possibility that partner may want to investigate a slam.

Thus, North may have the A-K of diamonds and two side aces, as well as other values sufficient to justify a reverse, in which case a slam can probably be made. This possibility should not be ignored.

prospects for increased employment and individual income which, they said, should lead to increased demands for farm products. The effects, they said, will be most noticeable in the beef and pork demand.

They gave considerable emphasis to the recent trade agreement with Russia which led to the export of grain from the United States to the Soviet Union. They pointed out that grain from one of every five American acres is exported and that the shipment of grain to Russia will expand the United States exports to the benefit of the American farmer.
